

air1 has truly changed my life. it's phrase is true, it is a positive alternative for people that don't necessarily want to listen to most of the crap that is put out by main stream radio. i myself refuse to listen to the radio, because i know that there is nothing on that is worth my time. this is why i, and hundreds of other listeners, love air1 so much because it is worth listening to. air1 changes people's lives (how many other radio stations have that kind of reputation?), people that listen to air may not know God or maybe they do but think that you have to act a certain way to be accepted by HIM, air1 portrays and presents God in a different way that is inviting to people. also i love air1 because i feel a part of it, like a true member. this is my home radio station and if i'm unable to listen to it, just know that there is someone out there who has nothing wholesome to listen to; nothing that would speak to me on a spiritual level like air1, nothing that helps me mature like air1, nothing that would take away the stress and the drama instead of adding to it like air1. air1 is my top positive alternative before i turn to a CD. thanks for reading and God bless...

sincerely a concerned listener
